Title: Factors associated with junior doctors' decisions to apply for general practice training programmes in the UK: secondary analysis of data from the UKMED project

Version: 0 Date: 12 Oct 2017

Reviewer: Sam Leinster

Reviewer's report:
This is an important piece of work, both because of the topicality of the issue explored and the demonstration of the value of the UKMED database. The analysis is well-described and is thorough. The conclusions are supported by the data and are pertinent. The tables and figures are clear. The only very minor flaw I found was on pg 12 line 7 where the numeral was missing from "Figure "
