Title: Efficacy of Melatonin for Sleep Disturbance Following Traumatic Brain Injury: A Randomized Controlled Trial

Version: 1 Date: 07 Nov 2017

Reviewer: Jonathan Yabes

Reviewer's report:

This article has greatly improved and most my concerns from the initial submission have been adequately addressed. However, I think the rationale for a crossover design stated in the authors' response to the reviewers were more enlightening than the text that was kept in the manuscript.

A parallel arm design would have also addressed concerns about confounding through randomization, albeit using a larger sample size. Also, now that it is clarified that it is an efficacy study, why is it still being called a Phase IV trial? Finally, "ITI" instead of "ITT" still lingers in the CONSORT diagram.
