Reviewer's report:

As I expressed before, experiences—such as those detailed in this manuscript—are important to publish as they can help inform the decision-making of other similar groups/studies. I appreciate the responses provided by the authors to all of my comments, as well as their efforts to incorporate the recommendations. As a result, the authors have submitted a manuscript with greater clarity (including revised figures), as well as some updated results. I believe this manuscript will make a valuable contribution to the wider literature and, in light of the authors’ responses and revisions, recommend that this revised manuscript be accepted for publication in BMC Medical Genomics.
