Title: Prevalence of osteoporosis and osteopenia in men and premenopausal women with celiac disease: a systematic review

Version: 0 Date: 10 Oct 2018

Reviewer's report:

There are a few grammatical errors through the manuscript which may be correct prior to publishing. I think it would be paramount to mention an important limitation in the study with regard to menopause. Many included studies are assuming an age at menopause as 50 or 55 without biochemical evidence of true menopause. Patients might have had menopause at age 45 and still be included in the study data. Overall it is an interesting observation and I agree that more controlled studies might be helpful to eliminate confounders.
