Title: Cooking Frequency and Hypertension with Gender as a Modifier

Version: 1 Date: 21 Nov 2019

Reviewer: Michalis Katsoulis

Reviewer's report:

My only comment at this stage is that the title should change - I think that the authors should remove the word "evidence".

The authors agreed that they their ability to draw any conclusion about a causal relationship between cooking frequency and hypertension is limited due to the study design (cross sectional study).
