Major Compulsory Revisions:

Much more is needed in terms of validation of the added value of the probe fixator. In particular: i) "Implementation" section should include, beside the description of the new technology, also the detailed methods adopted to test it. ii) As a consequence of the previous point, the "Results" section, beside general consideration regarding the image quality, should refer also to quantified data that clearly show the added value of the introduced system. As an example, reproducibility of the obtained echo measurements with or without the probe fixator might be investigated.
