Reviewer's report:

Again I found that this is an interesting manuscript tried to describe some evidence which is currently lacking by perceived need on what operational factors affect CHW performance with system oriented methods based on authors' conceptual framework. Previously I made several comments to give this manuscript more cogency. In fact authors revised the necessary structure of the manuscript and rewrite significant portion to explain in detail in response to the comments.

This revision work gave more credibility of the manuscript and I trust that this manuscript is ready for publication. Once again I would like to thank to authors for their efforts trying to fill the gap to better understand the workings of CHW interventions.
