Reviewer's report:

Dear Editor,

Thank you for the invitation to review the manuscript.

The study addresses the issue of the shortage of doctors in Tanzania in a specific perspective: workforce deployment process. This approach contributes to the discussion of the topic, since this is a dimension that should be strongly considered when elaborating public policies for the provision and fixation of physicians.

The limitations of the study are clearly described, and efforts were made to ensure the reliability of the findings.

The discussion is well structured and using relevant references.

The findings do not go beyond the scope of the study, and the authors still recommend a complementation of the research in order to obtain a more comprehensive view of the subject.

It's a good article.

I hope I contributed.
