Reviewer’s report

Title: The impact of the health care workforce on under-five mortality in rural China

Version: 3 Date: 10 Feb 2019

Reviewer: Jenny Liu

Reviewer's report:

The Authors have made some marginal effort to improve the manuscript with a light editing. While the substance of the article, the analysis, and the discussion of results is adequate for publication, the rhetorical style could still use improvement in order to make the article reader-friendly. While these stylistic aspects are outside the scope of peer review, I encourage the authors to consider reorganizing some of the introduction so that it flows more logically.
