Title: Migration Intentions of Asian and African Medical Students Educated in China: A Cross Sectional Study

Version: 1 Date: 21 May 2019

Reviewer: Nathan Wilson

Reviewer's report:

Your article needs to be published, but it will raise a great many more questions than answers it can provide at this stage.

There are many ethical issues that are sidelined in the environment of your work, but not by you, per se, but more so by the higher authorities in the medical qualifications landscape. You are following a scholarly route when pursuing this line of work, but I guess that what it ultimately represents may be a problem to some international readers.

The issue of it being so challenging to gain working visas in the same country as where training is offered - this is a serious problem that will need redress at an international level.
