Title: Birth Preparedness and Complication Readiness Practice and Influencing Factors among Women in Sodo town, Wolaita zone, Southern Ethiopia, 2018; community based cross-sectional study

Version: 0 Date: 01 Feb 2019

Reviewer’s report:

Much too many words no interesting results, but would be acceptable if well-condensed, in good English without the repetitions and irrelevant details, including statistical details.

The statistical details are only very relevant if you want to sell us expensive drugs, have a complete new insight or want to change protocols. Nobody reading your paper will think you have ulterior motives apart from scoring a publication.

The reader loses interest fast, that is not what you want, the message should for the international reader be understood and appreciated for its potential merits in 10 minutes. I have added some remarks but after some time I stopped trying to streamline your paper it is not my job but yours.
