Title: Single tooth torque correction in the lower frontal area by a completely customized lingual appliance

Version: 2 Date: 30 Aug 2017

Reviewer: Julia Cohen-Levy

Reviewer's report:

I greatly appreciated the efforts of the authors in the clarification of the text and the detailed and objective approach they used to describe their results. This manuscript also points out a major clinical problem occurring with some bonded lingual retention wires (as two out of 3 of these case-reports had occurred because of this problem), and presents a viable solution for these cases.

Congratulations for this interesting work and promising future research.
