Comments to the Authors

The authors reported an interesting case of the management of Aspergillus mural endocarditis in LV which was complicated with multiple cerebral abscesses. This case might be of interest to readers because of its rarity.

I congratulate them for their paper and their overall management. Their text is well written. The "case report" is well described. The topic is enough and well discussed. Generally, my opinion about this case report is positive.

However, I have a question, the authors have to deal with:

1. What kind of cardiac incision have they used in order to remove the vegetation from the inferior septal area of the left ventricle? Can they add it to their case?
