Title: Hybrid treatment of an unusual traumatic aortic arch rupture with pseudoaneurysm: a case report

Version: 0 Date: 28 Jan 2019

Reviewer: P Zhu

Reviewer’s report:

First of all, congratulations to your team for a very good surgery, the patient's treatment is also very good. Although the aortic dissection caused by trauma is usually located near the left subclavian artery, this patient is slightly different. Your surgical approach is also a good way.

I have a few suggestions for this article.

1. Please refer to the reader's instructions for this magazine for details.

2. Re-arrange paragraphs and texts with reference to previous cases published in this magazine.

3. It is recommended to retouch the article, including grammar and spelling, and important concepts.
