Version: 0 Date: 01 Jun 2019

Reviewer: Marios Patronis

Reviewer’s report:

Interesting case report. Congratulations!

Optional recommendations:

- I would add a comment regarding the pre-op consent of the patients who are scheduled to undergo radiofrequency ablation. Should we inform them for the possibility of these rare but life threatening complications?

- In the paragraph of conclusions I would use the word large instead of the word huge (Surgery is effective treatment for...). Actually surgery is the only treatment with the exceptionally rare option of intravascular techniques in very selected cases.

The above suggestions are optional and you can ignore them.

Kind Regards,
