Title: Hemoptysis Secondary to Rupture of Infected Aortic Aneurysm – A Case Report

Version: 0 Date: 02 Jun 2019

Reviewer: Henrique Murad

Reviewer's report:

There some problems in your paper:

1- Why not to replace the aorta with a graft or a homograft if feasible. Leaving an infected aorta behind does not seem an adequate procedure;

2- Your references are too old. The most recent reference, from 2014, relates to an abdominal infected aortic aneurysm and not to a thoracic one, and the endovascular reference, a field of constant development is from 2005;

3- What have you done for the lung...; why you did not perform a lobectomy, for instance;

4- How long is the patient follow in the clinic? Recurrences can occur at any time and this is a very important information
