Title: Very Late Unusual Thrombosis of the Remnant Pulmonary Vasculatures after Lung Resection Complicated by Embolic Events

Version: 0 Date: 15 Aug 2019

Reviewer: Qian Jun

Reviewer's report:

1. Very late thrombosis is very rare, and this article provides a well-documented and complete description of these postoperative complications.

2. Case 1, How long did the patient take warfarin orally? Any complications?

3. How do you prevent pulmonary embolism after thoracic surgery in your hospital? In our hospital, we emphasize early post-operative activity (within 12 hours), which is very effective. The incidence of pulmonary embolism is limited to less than 1%. Do you think this method is useful for very late thrombosis?

4. The incidence of PAT after pneumonectomy was 12% [14], and the incidence of PVT after lobectomy was 3.3% [15]. What do you think it?
