Title: Dual Antiplatelet Therapy Up to the Time of Non-Elective Coronary Artery Bypass Grafting with Prophylactic Platelet Transfusion: Is It Safe?

Version: 0 Date: 08 Oct 2019

Reviewer: Sunil Agrawal

Reviewer's report:

It is a good article about a problem which everyone encounters every now and then. However I have certain points to mention:

1. 8 units of platelet transfusion to me looks arbitrary. They did not mentioned the reason for this many units of platelet transfusion in their article.

2. The existing clopidogrel can bind with the freshly transfused platelets to make them ineffective in coagulation process.

3. It would had been better to compare between patients who had dual antiplatelets without platelet transfusion with dual antiplatelets with platelet transfusion rather than comparing with Aspirin group.
