Title: Rare Aneurysm of Anterior Mitral Valve Leaflet-A case report

Version: 0 Date: 10 Sep 2019

Reviewer: Jacob Bergsland

Reviewer's report:

The paper is a case report of limited interest. It is in general well written, but should be markedly reduced in length if accepted for publication. The illustrations are satisfactory.

In the abstract it says that the valve was examined pre and postoperatively and it was decided that replacement was necessary. I assume the authors meant intra-operatively, since there does not appear to have been two operations.

It would be interesting if the authors could describe in some more detail why the valve could not be repaired and also how a potential repair could have been performed: Excision of aneurysm, substitution with pericardium or similar.
