Title: A meta-analysis of perventricular device closure of doubly committed subarterial ventricular septal defects

Version: 0 Date: 24 Nov 2019

Reviewer: Karolis Jonas

Reviewer's report:

The authors of this article try to deal with sensitive topic in the field of congenital heart surgery - the treatment of isolated doubly committed VSDs. The goal of this publication set by the authors is as follows: "To investigate the safety and efficacy of perventricular device closure of doubly committed subarterial ventricular septal defects (dcsVSDs)". In the article, the authors do not provide an answer, instead they conclude, that in selected patients a perventricular closure by a competent team maybe an alternative to surgery. The article does not provide any unique additional information, however, it may be interesting to those who work in the same field whether it would be research, or clinical practice. The article needs to be edited by a professional English language editor prior to publication.
