Reviewer's report:

Surgical treatment of benign mediastinal teratoma summary of experience of 108 cases is an interesting and large case series. The span of years involving these case present prior to widespread minimally invasive video assisted thoracoscopic surgery. It would be interesting to know era differences regarding surgical technique such as the portion of cases completed by VATS versus open thoractomy before and after the median of the patients included in this study. The authors are to be congratulated for a large volume and experience in the treatment of mediastinal teratoma.
