Reviewer's report:

Interesting manuscript dealing with an important issue. Although this procedure has been done in the past for complex problems with the mitral valve utilizing percutaneous valve modification, the only new aspect of this procedure is that no suture was applied to secure the valve. From looking at the videos, this would have been very easy to do with 3 pledgeted sutures, which might aid in ensuring no movement of the valve. However, since the follow is good, one cannot question this result and technique.
