Title: Self-expanding nitinol stents of high vs. low chronic outward force in de-novo femoropopliteal occlusive arterial lesions (BIOFLEX-COF trial): study protocol for a randomized controlled trial

Version: 0 Date: 06 Sep 2017

Reviewer: amanda sachetti

Reviewer’s report:

Complex study, well elaborated, with few methodological items to be reviewed!

The authors design the study as prospective, monocentric, randomized, but I suggest that they rethink the possibility of calling a prospective, quantitative, randomized cohort study.

In the objective item the authors explain the objective and after, in the same item, explain other details that are not part of the objectives. I suggest redirecting this explanation to another item in the methodology and leave only the sentence about the main purpose.
