Title: Evaluation of HbA1c Screening during Outreach Events for Prediabetes Subject Recruitment for Clinical Research

Version: 0 Date: 19 Nov 2017

Reviewer: Iocca Oreste

Reviewer's report:

The article of Paglialunga and co-workers addresses an important aspect of medical research methodology. The article is well structured and the written English does not need major revisions.

On the other hand, the authors should provide further details about the statistical methods used. In fact, these are described superficially and the related figures are difficult to interpret. The authors are invited to share their data and expand the explanations of the statistical tests used. Also, improvement in the quality/presentation of the related figures is suggested.
