Title: A protocol to prospectively assess risk factors for medial tibial stress syndrome in distance runners

Version: 0 Date: 04 Jul 2018

Reviewer: Masatoshi Nakamura

Reviewer’s report:

This research is an important study to elucidate the cause of MTSS.

It is very well organized in the introduction section. In addition, the measurement outcome are also very wonderful research.

However, since this study reports progress, I think that it is not suitable for publishing as an original article.

I am looking forward to seeing the results of this study.
