Comments to authors:

This Paper refers to a Pancreatic mediastinal pseudocyst, which presented as a posterior mediastinal mass with recurrent pleural effusions. The authors did a short review of the literature as well.

1. The case report is interesting and I would have suggested publication
2. However, there are a number of serious problems with this manuscript, some of them I am listing below
   a. The literature review is a rather inadequate one, since most of the references are 10 years old
   b. There are numerous syntax and spelling mistakes
   c. Most importantly, The references are not written according to the JMC’s authors guide lines
   d. The figures need further explanation and the legends also Therefore, I suggest that the authors should do a full revision and resubmit the manuscript again.”
