This article reports a case series of oral lesions in patients with eating disorders (ED). It focuses on the diagnosis of ED thank to the collaboration between dentists, gastroenterologists and psychiatrists. The topic of the article is interesting and the paper is appropriately written with a correct English. However, before publication authors should correct minor grammatical errors:

In the title "COMPLAINTS" or "COMPLAINS"?
In the introduction section put FGID between parentheses.
In the case 1 authors should report the manufacturer of MACROGOL.
In case 2 add a reference for BMI.
In the discussion insert a stop after: "The latter as well as the often-associated epigastric pain are terminated by self-induced vomiting, which allows either continuation or termination of the binge"
