Title: Case report - Infectious Diseases: Mycoplasma pneumoniae as a cause of vulvar ulcers in a non sexually active young female

Version: 0 Date: 17 Mar 2017

Reviewer: Naqeeb Khan

Reviewer’s report:

1. This article is a good one and well written but the main problem with it is that nowhere I found that the genital ulcer was due to Mycoplasma Pneumonia. Kindly explain it clearly that on the basis of which lab test you say that the genital lesion was a result of Mycoplasma pneumonia.

2. Secondly you say that neither Mycoplasma nor any other pathogen was isolated directly from the skin lesions, therefore the immune-mediated effect may be the most probable explanation. ........But it is also possible that the infection might be transformed from nasal cavities to genital area through contaminated hands!!!

3. On page no. 5 please reconsider line no. 46: ........ IV antibiotics..... write it clearly as "intravenous antibiotics"
