Title: Carpal spasm in a young female as initial presentation of celiac disease- case report

Version: 0 Date: 19 Apr 2017

Reviewer: Derrick Hoover

Reviewer’s report:

I found this to be a very interesting case presentation and this could be very useful to primary care physicians to help identify this condition if a patient presents with carpal spasms as this is a rare presentation of celiac disease. Rare presentation are rare and exposure to them allows us as clinicians to keep these in the back of our minds available for access if this presentation arises; thereby saving a lot of time trying to figure out the etiology of symptoms allowing us to treat the patient more efficiently and effectively. Good read with useful clinical information.
