Reviewer’s report

Title: Renocardial syndrome of another kind

Version: 0 Date: 04 Apr 2017

Reviewer: Malik Ghannam

Reviewer's report:

It is a good case.

1- I would add "case report" in the title

2- the discussion is so short and it was already said in the abstract. I would suggest discussing the differential diagnosis in more details like myxoma as you mentioned. As well as discussing why the right sided thrombus in nephrotic syndrome is underreported in adult compared to children.

3- it would be more helpful if we know exactly the type of glomerulonephritis, do you think knowing the type is related to the right sided thrombus in the heart?

Thanks
