Title: Systematic mapping of checklists for assessing transferability

Version: 0 Date: 04 Dec 2017

Reviewer: Eddie Kane

Reviewer's report:

Excellent paper highlighting an important area. Only minor change I would suggest is perhaps to explore a little more in depth the shortfalls of the current tools (e.g. GRADE). Also perhaps a little more discussion of the extent to which identified tools have any actual discriminatory validity - i.e. do they objectively and consistently identify transferability criteria and what are the limitations of use. Without this view the tools could simply be another level of bias being introduced into decision making. I must stress that I would leave consideration of these to the authors and would not expect that if they felt these where unreasonable I would still support acceptance.
