Reviewer comments:

The title of the article is "Many continuous variables should be analyzed using the relative scale: a case study of β2-agonists for preventing exercise-induced bronchoconstriction".

In the revised manuscript, the authors convincingly enough replied to my previous comments and properly improved the manuscript. The manuscript contains now all information. Overall the manuscript reads well, has clarity, and communicates the work of the authors. In my opinion this manuscript is suitable for publication in Systematic Reviews.
