Title: Contribution of chronic diseases to educational disparity in disability in France: results from the cross-sectional "Disability-Health" survey

Version: 0 Date: 26 Sep 2018

Reviewer: Manish Tiwari

Reviewer’s report:

1. This is a well-designed study and addresses an important question.

2. The methods, data and results are interesting.

3. Discussion of results and the following conclusions are appropriate.

4. I have a couple questions for the authors.

   a. Is it possible to see if there is a correlation between education and disability from the data available? If so, would it be appropriate to include in study?

   b. The authors mention differences in observed prevalence between the education groups on page 12 in percentages. Are those differences significant and can a p-value be assigned to these differences in percentages?

   c. This applies to figure 2 as well. Is it possible to see if the differences in disability prevalence between the groups significant statistically?
