Version: 1  Date: 20 Dec 2018

Reviewer: Finaba Berete

Reviewer's report:

The authors have made changes which improved the manuscript. Most of my concerns have been addressed. Thanks for the corrections. However, I still have some minor comments.

In the method section, p.10, line 52: 90% of those … --> should be ninety percent of those …

In the results: thanks to have taking into account seasonality and self-perceived health. However, nothing are said about these variables in the results and/or in the discussion.

These variables should appear at least in the results. Please specify if you voluntarily chose not to show them in your tables (because tables would be too long), you can add the full table with all the variables as additional files.
