Reviewer's report:

This will be an interested paper. The authors could enhance the paper by providing more information on the validity of the language translation. I wondered why they have only chosen to use factor analysis, rather than for example a Rasch analysis. The latter has advantages over factor analyses. Grammar needs checking, for example in places the authors switch between present and past tense in the methods section. At time full stops are missing at the end of sentences.
