Reviewer's report:

The authors have addressed most of my comments sufficiently. However, in response to my comments about Table 3, the authors chose to delete the table entirely and present the results in the text. I would like to see the results listed in a table, similar to Table 1 to the extent possible. That way the reader can more easily see the connection between study 1 and study 2. Descriptions such as statistic used, can be presented as footnotes.

In addition, the authors use the term "Christianity" when I think they want to use the term "Protestant". Catholics, in their worship of Christ, are 'Christian' too. If there is a translation issue here, please provide an explanation in the text.
