Latest comments:

1. Please, specify who made the clinical assessments at the start and during the follow-ups? Did you use a multimodal team approach in evaluating the diagnosis and need of rehabilitation? What kind of physician by his or her specialty?

2. Did you use the same exhaustion scale at the start and during follow-ups?

3. It is necessary to present the criteria of exhaustion syndrome diagnosis used in Sweden, not to refer to Grossi et al. review article. The exhaustion criteria used in Sweden is quite unique and not used abroad. It is important for international reader to understand the criteria, especially when a new assessment was used after 7 years and you mention that not all symptoms were present.
