Reviewer's report:

This is an important regional paper that describe and analyse a nutritional problem in some specific area. It have some problems with the way the methodology and results are writing.

1.- In the methodology there is not statistical plan explained in the paper and also dis not specify id the paper was approved by any IRB

2.- The results is very important to express in the appropriate way. You could not put any P value with out any results expressed in number related with the p value (example the BMI was 27 vs 24 kg cm² (p value > 0.005) The OR also has to show a confidence interval 95% with a p value if they were tested with logistic models. In the tables the P value most be used always with the same decimals.
