Title: The development and feasibility of a randomised family-based physical activity promotion intervention: The Families Reporting Every Step to Health (FRESH) study

Version: 0 Date: 07 Dec 2018

Reviewer: Greg Atkinson

Reviewer's report:

This is a well constructed study and the reporting standards are high from this respected research group. I was very pleased to read the paper and congratulate the authors for their work. My only question is whether the standard deviations of the outcome measures should be discussed, especially in relation to estimated sample size/statistical power for a future full trial?

I believe this component is a reporting target from MRC/NIHR frameworks for feasibility/pilot studies.
