Title: Patient and public involvement in health literacy interventions: A mapping review

Version: 0 Date: 22 Aug 2017

Reviewer: Lee Gunn

Reviewer's report:

This paper reports a straightforward review of literature on the subject specified, which may be very useful to researchers carrying out associated work. The conclusions are broadly similar to those found in other studies on PPI. Results are detailed, and limitations are acknowledged. I'd like to have seen more discussion related to the topics covered, including the concept of health literacy as it relates to perspectives of patients and members of the public. PPI discussions or direct contributions to the paper could help to make this a more substantial piece. References provided could be more comprehensive, though they appear to be well selected; a reference to the GRIPP2 work on reporting of PPI in research may be appropriate. There are many minor issues with expression, which need careful checking.
