Reviewer's report:

This is an interesting study and article, and the authors are to be commended for their innovation.

A few issues of clarification would further enhance the manuscript:

1) An indication of whether or not the patients were paid for their time, and the reason for this decision.

2) Practical suggestions with regards to the problem of the noise level and whether, for example, would having lots of rooms be a help or cause other problems.

3) Would a combination of the traditional formal format together with the innovative informal format, be better than either format alone.
