Title: Global Health in Preconception, Pregnancy and Postpartum Alliance: Development of an International Consumer and Community Involvement Framework.

Reviewer's report:

This is a very interesting paper that describes a framework for engaging with people who in my own experience can be quite difficult to even just identify as many are not currently service users. The lack of evidence identified on CCI in pre-conception care is sadly not surprising. I would be interested to know more about some of the approaches used. Specifically, 'playdates' and 'yoga for bump'. Were the playdate sessions attended by multiple consumers with children or was it the researchers' own children and did they participate in the yoga? From the way it is worded I am not clear so some clarification around that would be helpful.
