Reviewer's report:

Him great work and great paper. Really impressed with the concept and putting it into practice. I have three small comments but one might be quite big.

1. Page 2 - Line 50
BRIGHTLIGHT is a research study examining the experience of having cancer as a young person and the impact of where young people receive their care. I don't understand this. What do you mean by "impact of where"?

2. Page 3 - Line 10 - "Young people learned about cancer and gained new skills as actors" - which young people?

3. Page 3 - Line 35 - "do specialist cancer services for teenagers and young adults add value?" this question is ambiguous- Add value to what or add value to whom? the patients, the family, the hospital, already existing services?
