Title: A Community-Driven and Evidence-Based Approach to Developing Mental Wellness Strategies in First Nations: A Program Protocol

Version: 1 Date: 09 Jul 2019

Reviewer: Michael Osborne

Reviewer's report:

This is a very good research project with full details of the research necessary and the complexities of research into indigenous populations especially in Canada. Anyone contemplating similar research will find this very useful and informative. As will anyone with a deep interest in research methods

I initially expected an interesting article perhaps with some findings of the research but was disappointed. Being a lay person with a good knowledge and interest in research I still did find it difficult to maintain an interest. However I am sure many will do better.
